

Family Garden Trail in Charterhouse Square

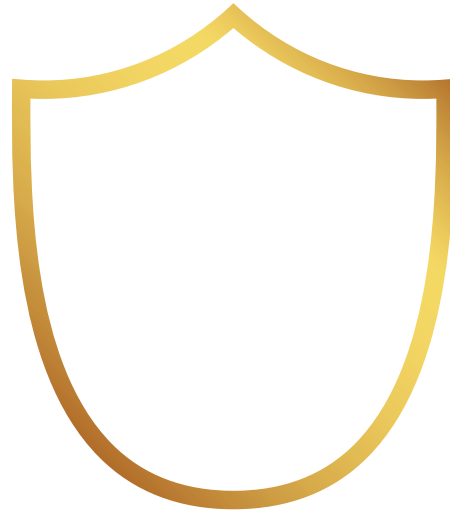

Charterhouse

Welcome to Charterhouse Square - make your way to the centre of the Square, and stand quietly for a few seconds...Write down what can you smell? What you can see? What you can hear?

The Pergola:

A coat-of-arms is a shield that represents a person or a family. Each symbol on the coat-of-arms represents something important to that person or group. On the ground you can see the coats-of-arms of the people who have lived at the Charterhouse.

Try drawing your own coat-of-arms using some of the patterns you see on the floor

Trees in the Square:

There are 13 London Plane trees in Charterhouse Square. They are over 100 years old and were planted in cities because they can cope with the heavy pollution in the air.

Can you do a bark rubbing from one of the trees?

The Gardener's Hut:

Can you find the gardener's shed? This is where the gardening team keep the tools they need to look after the garden.

Can you name the tools?

The Meadow:

The roped off area round the edge of the square is a British wildflower meadow. It has flowers and grasses to attract bees, butterflies and other insects.

Use this space to draw the meadow and the flowers you can see.
